- External bodies (credit institutions, insurance companies)

(Planned) data transfer to third countries

We do not pass on personal data of employees, of customers and suppliers to third countries. By means of various technical and organizational measures, these data are protected by us internally.

When visiting our website, data are transferred to third countries within the meaning of Google Analytics (see Data Protection Declaration, point 4). The data protection level has been examined and considered to be appropriate.

Standard periods for deleting data

Data, subject to statutory retention periods, are retained and routinely deleted after expiry of the statutory period unless they are required for the fulfilment of contract. Provided that data are not affected by this, they will be deleted as soon as the purposes, specified under "Purpose of data acquisition, processing or use", cease to exist.
